PERSHING FAVORED AS HOOVER RUNNING MATE

4,000 U. S. Troops Prepare For Action In China

FOREIGNERS GUARDED BY AMERICANS

By HAROLD P. MILES,
United Press Staff Correspondent

SHANGHAI, June 12.—(U.P.)—Three thousand American marines and one thousand infantry men under Brigadier General Smedley Butler were faced in Tientsin tonight with a situation which might involve fighting with Chinese civil war troops to prevent destruction of American lives and property and to protect other foreign interests.

Rooted Northern troops, evacuating before the Nationalists, were looting and clashing with police and soldiers in various parts of the city, and the densely populated native quarters were in utter confusion.

Nationalists hoisted their sunbanner over the city today and Chang Tsung Chang, Northern chief, evacuated to Lutai. Preservation of peace was in the hands of General Futsoyi and Nan Kuei Hsing and they were facing increasing difficulties in maintenance of order.

The defeated troops began looting and fighting as they passed through the native city and angry crowds and police took up the challenge until the confusion was complete.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Clarence E. Causs, American consul at Tientsin, advised the State Department late today that disorders and firing have attended the withdrawal of Northern troops under Chang Tsung-Chang and Chu Yu-Pu from Tientsin, but that all is quiet in the foreign area.

Mayor Chandler has extended a special invitation to Congressman Carter. Both congressmen are asked by Richmond's chief executive to be prepared to make a brief talk on this occasion.

Following the ground-breaking ceremonies, a luncheon will be served at the Hotel Carquinez. This luncheon is open to everybody, but the Chamber of Commerce, which is taking the leadership in the affair, urges those who will attend the luncheon to make reservations early.

Fred Parr, president of the Richmond-Parr Terminal Corporation, which is sharing with the city in the cost of constructing the half million dollar inner-harbor combined wharf and warehouse, is expected back from the east by June 20, and will be master of ceremonies for the celebration, according to tenative plans mapped by the joint committee of chamber of commerce, service clubs and city officials, named by Mayor Chandler. E. B. Bull, chairman of the harbor committee of the chamber of commerce, is chairman of this general committee. Richmond's

VICE-PRESIDENT AROUSES CONVENTION INTEREST AS VOTES FOR HOOVER MOUNT

KANSAS CITY, June 12—(U.P.)—A sub-committee of 16 members of the platform committee started an all night session here shortly after 10 o'clock tonight to draft a platform for presentation to the republican convention tomorrow.

Senator Smoot of Utah, chairman of the committee, expects to have the platform ready at 10 a. m. tomorrow for a report to the full committee which must approve it before it is submitted to the convention.

By RAYMOND CLAPPER,
United Press Staff Correspondent.)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 12.—(U.P.)—General Pershing for Vice-President on the ticket with Herbert Hoover was the line-up being considered by many leaders in the Republican National Convention tonight.

With the nomination of Hoover for President absolutely assured by developments within the previous twelve hours, thoughts turned to a running mate.

Considered among the possibilities were:

General Pershing, of Nebraska.

Vice President Dawes, of Illinois.

Senator George Moses, of New Hampshire.

Rep. John Q. Tilson, of Connecticut.

Gov. Alvin T. Fuller, of Massachusetts.

Gov. Hammill, of Iowa.

Of all these, General Pershing stood out tonight as the strongest figure to take a place beside Hoover in the Presidential battle against the Democrats, who are expected to be led by Governor Alfred E. Smith.

The certain nomination of Hoover brought jubilant statements from Hoover headquarters, and most significant of all a promise the platform will include—presumably through the influence of the Hoover forces—a plank on farm relief which "will afford real relief and on sound economic lines."

James W. Good, manager of the Hoover campaign, issued the following statement:

"Mr. Hoover will be nominated on the first ballot. The greatest comfort that comes to republicans in this hour is that Mr. Hoover is the genuine choice of the republicans of the United States. The collapse of the opposition proves that the issue made against Secretary Hoover lacks sincerity.

"The mystery of the so-called farm uprising against Mr. Hoover is explained.

"In the east it looked very formidable, but the further west you went the more it tended to evaporate, by the time you reached Kansas City it was just nothing at all. We understand now that the movement started not from the western farmers but from the lower part of Manhattan Island and it never got much beyond that region of sturdy agriculturists. The farmers' march on Kansas City did not materialize.

From a state of tense uncertainty twenty-four hours ago the convention has swiftly moved to a

Vets Shelve Kellog War Outlaw Plan

KANSAS CITY, June 12.—(U.P.)—A move to have the republican national convention commend the administration for Secretary of State Kellogg's war outlawry proposal was side-tracked by more than 150 veteran delegates in a platform caucus here tonight.

The original Kellogg resolution was submitted to the veterans by John J. Sullivan of Seattle, past vice-commander of the American Legion. Immediately Brigadier General Henry Reilly, Chicago delegate, objected.

"We don't want anything about the Kellogg proposal," he said. "accept that what other nations propose to sign is quite different from what America asks them to sign."

ITALIA CREW SUFFER FROM PRIVATION

KINGS BAY, June 12.—(U.P.)—General Umberto Nobile and men of the crew of the Italia are suffering from frozen hands and feet and are short of food on the arctic ice, a message received from the Italia's radio operator by the Citta di Milano, the dirigible's mother ship said today.

Nobile, accompanied by three companions, started a march westward from his temporary shelter and wireless station, but Nobile returned to the station. The other three continued their march hoping to reach land.

The steamship Braganza, which was caught in ice enroute to the rescue, sent a wireless message saying she was free of ice and was proceeding on forced speed for Kings Bay to take on a cargo of gasoline and stores for the lost explorers.

The message said the ship would depart from Kings Bay as speedily as possible for Northeastland.

Fresh winds tonight were breaking the ice floes, making it possible for the ship to navigate.

WEDNESDAY MORNING JUNE 13, 1928

FRANCE OFFERS ONE

Some time ago we heard quite a little about the new British cruisers which are said to be more powerful than any warships of the type in the world. In the past few days we have been getting word from France of a new and powerful type of submarine. According to a Paris dispatch to the New York Times, this new submarine, the Redoubtable Venguer, will have its trial voyage early in June. It is said to be bigger and more powerful than anything in the world and according to many naval experts will give the French a submarine navy equal to anything in the world.

But this is not all. There will soon be under construction for the French an even more powerful undersea boat which will have an undersea tonnage of 3250. The largest American submarine has an underwater tonnage of 2850. Few of the qualities of the new subs have become known, but it is said that the Redoubtable Venguer will have a cruising radius of 8000 miles and be capable of remaining at sea for 30 days. The ships will have armament features which are said to be entirely new and will be a real advance over all similar construction. Needless to say, these new features are being kept secret.

It would seem, therefore, that all of the world has not yet been converted to pacifism, in spite of the statements of certain American pacifists that we ought to disarm. In view of the expansion and improvement of the navies of Great Britain, France and other world powers, it would seem that Uncle Sam would be foolish indeed either to begin reducing his navy or to quit the building necessary to preserve the best interests of th United States. Nobody in America wants war, but it would be foolish just the same to hamper the development of our navy, which is the best insurance against war.

One man suggests that we base our immigration quotas on the number of various racial groups in our penitentiaries. The trouble with this measuring stick is that most of the real slickers seldom get inside.

Who remembers the good days when the only favor a politician wanted was a free ticket to the state convention?

The most optimistic fellow we have ever heard of is the guy who wanted to start a training school for bartenders.

It's about as hard to understand a news dispatch abou the war in China as it is one of those sumple books on the way to become a good bridge player.

Do Favorite Son societies ever have reunions in the years following the national conventions?

WALTER P. CHRYSLER'S TRAFFIC TALKS

THE SCHOOL TEACHER'S DUTY

With the coming of Spring and the release to the road of fully thirty percent of the cars owned, the need for instructing school children in traffic regulations becomes imperative.

The logical place for this instruction is the school. The teacher should set aside a period each day for teaching children just what is expected of them on the streets and roads. If possible, all instruction should be positive, few "don'ts" and many "do's". A book of traffic regulations may be obtained from any police station. Not only should these future citizens know the law as pedestrians but they should know also what consideration and cooperation they have the right to expect from the motorist. They should be t[illegible] from the standpoint that the[illegible] future motorists.

[illegible]w warnings should be [illegible] the form of rules, [illegible]lings or preachings. [illegible]uld never run suddenly [illegible] street to chase a [illegible]mal or another comp[illegible] ever these are traffic [illegible]hould be obeyed to the [illegible] even then the child should be taught to look first to the left and then to the right before crossing.

Special care should be suggested for wet days when slippery pavements make even the best brakes unreliable. If possible, children going to school in congested districts should pass in groups and all older children should convoy the younger ones at crossings.

Even when a street is "closed" for play, children should be on the alert because even where commercial vehicles are barred it is sometimes necessary for other cars to pass through a block.

Children are apt to become so accustomed to the blowing of horns that they pay little or no attention to them. No signal from a motor vehicle should pass unnoticed. Hanging on behind drays and trucks should be discouraged. Hiking in the spare tire, and hopping off in the path of another oncoming car should be forbidden. A combination English composition, spelling and traffic talk examination can well be worked into one operation by the teacher.

Jane G. was so pleased with an idea I gave her that I am going to pass it on, for further missionary work. Jane had a lovely blue aquamarine blue silk crepe frock and almost at the first wearing ran plum into a tragedy. She ruined the jumper. In despair she almost bought a blouse or a sweater to go with the skirt. But I remembered a quite unusual frock I had seen which had deeply registered in my mind for just such a contingency. So after a conference with me she bought a piece of unglazed chintz and some aquamarine blue grograin ribbon instead and made the sleeveless blouse I have sketched here. The chintz has a small pattern aquamarine blue and pink and a bit of yellow and green. It makes a delightfully appropriate costume for morning or afternoon in this day of the sleeveless frock.

Santa Maria—New post office building will be erected on East Church street.

BEAUTY

By LAURA LANE

No matter how slender and white your hands, how tapering your fingers, they are not truly beautiful unless the nails are well cared for.

On the other hand (no puns intended, I assure you!), the woman with stubby, blunt fingers can pour out tea or deal a bridge hand (and once again I hasten to rebuke anyone who finds a pun where none was intended) with entire confidence in the appearance of her hands if her nails are well-groomed.

Quite obviously, smooth white hands are more attractive than coarsened and red ones. Some women seem to think that the fact that they do housework is an adequate excuse for ugly hands. Of course, this is not true. Washing clothes, dusting and scouring pans will coarsen the finest hands if there is no reason for even the busiest woman to do this.

Rubber gloves will protect the hands from the more arduous household tasks and liberal use of massage cream on the hands and wrists will do the rest. The use of a lemon bleaching cream will complete this treatment which need take but very little time from your housework.

Keeping your hands smooth and [illegible] such a simple matter that you will surely have a little time left over every day to care for your nails. Remember that just a few minutes' attention each day will keep them trim and well-groomed looking.

GOOD MANNERS

Q. At a semi-formal dinner what is the correct order of service?

A. The guest or honor, who sits at the host's right, is served first and keeps the plate offered to her. Then the additional plates are passed on. When all on his right hand have been served as far as the hostess, who is sitting at the opposite end of the table the host starts to the left and serves on that side. The plates should not travel the entire circle of the table.

How To Earn Money!

Will you please tell me what I have to do to put on sale a silver polish I have? I would like to sell it from door to door or through the mail. Do I need a permit?

M. A. W.

You will not need a permit; the only difficulty lies in finding a market for your polish. I would suggest you go first to the hardware stores and silver departments of the larger stores and try to place your orders there. It will take a bit more effort, but it will be more worth while than selling to a private trade.

Angela means "angel" in Mexico. If you should see Angela with her black hair, dark skin, bright dress, bare, brown, dirty little toes, you would not call her angel! Angela could not read or write. She could eat the good tortillas or corn cakes. She could help her mother cook the good frijoles, or black beans. She could eat the good chocolate made in Mexico. She could play, and take a SIESTA, or "nap." Happy little dark angel, Angela!

The brother of Angela was called JUANITO. Juan means "John," but Juanito means "little John." Little John was a little Mexican boy. And Juanito's mother thought the name very pretty. She thought Juanito a handsome little Mexican. Her dark eyes shone when she said, while grinding the soaked corn for cakes. "My son, like his father." She would watch Juanito while she rolled the stone over the soaked corn again, again, again. She would say, "Juanito, Juanito—it is a name of music."

NEW HAIR FAD REQUIRES MEN TO USE DYES

Hair dye for men threatened to set a new fashion in Hollywood when Clara Bow, Paramount star, insisted that her leading man should have hair harmonizing with her own auburn tresses. Lane Chandler, however, stemmed the tide by offering his own flaming red head as a playmate for that of Miss Bow.

Miss Bow insists upon accuracy in her production and, in her latest Paramount picture, "Red Hair," which will be shown at the California Theatre today requested that her leading man be of the red-headed type. Although hundreds of Hollywood men offered to dye their hair if it meant an opportunity to play opposite Miss Bow, they were persuaded against this step as the dye could not take care of the temperament side of the requirement.

Finally the search was brought to an end when it was discovered that red-headed Lane Chandler, just finished with "The Legion of the Condemned," was available.

"I'm perfectly satisfied," said Miss Bow. "Ye gods, isn't he handsome.

"Red Hair' calls for red-blooded temperament and I had to insist on having a red headed man."

Clara Bow, the mad-cap of the screen, comes into her own in this new picturization of the American flapper. The role of Bubbles McCoy, manicurist, places the auburn-haired actress in a particularly dynamic role, full of love, life and light hearted fun. The story was written expressly for her by Elinor Glyn and she took a particularly active interest in aiding in its development.

The production of "Red Hair" was made by virtually the same Paramount unit that turned out "It." The story was written by Elinor Glyn, Clara Bow is the star and Clarence Badger directed.

William Austin and Jacequlin Gadson, both of whom will be rembered for their parts in "It," are in the supporting cast of "Red Hair," and, in addition, L. Grant and Claude King have important parts.

One of the features of the photoplay is the flaming of the flaming red tresses of Clara Bow and the equally flaming head of Lane Chandler in technicolor. This process brings out this important characteristic of these two-well known stars. Hitherto, owing to the limitations of black and white photography, Miss Bow's hair has appeared dark in all her pictures. Few followers of her plays realize that her hair, far from being dark, is a flaming mass of red.

Although Clara Bow entered the movies by way of a beauty contest, in which she was selected as one of the most attractive girls in New York State by Harrison Fisher, Neysa McMein and Howard Chandler Christy, Chandler achieved his first assignment by accident. He was discovered while acting as a guide in Yellowstone National Park, by an independent producer filming several scenes in the park.

Tenderloin

SYNOPSIS

The evening's revelry is at its height in Kelly's ringside cafe in the Bowery. In the soft semi-darkness, bodies writhe to the whine of the saxophone and the odor of cheap perfumes is heavy on the dance floor. Streamers of variegated crepe paper hang from the ceiling to the booths where girls with brilliant lips and tight-fitting bodices are sitting smoking and drinking with their escorts. As Chuck White, the beau of the Bowery, is steering his partner, lovely Rose Shannon, around the floor, a man bumps inter her radely. Chuck resents the action. He would have grappled with him but Rose restrains him.

CHAPTER I—Continued

But Rose Shannon was smiling once more, and gazing up at Chuck with those fresh, wide eyes, and he couldn't help returning the smile. For when Rose's pink lips opened, tiny dimples came into the corner of her mouth, and another dimple suddenly appeared in her left cheek and seemed to make one want to do nothing but laugh, too. And then her nose had a bewitching wrinkle. And her eyes—well, they'd simply knock anyone cuckoo, according to Chuck White. Deep, as the sea; then suddenly all light and full of sparkles, like a beautifully cut sapphire beneath a strong light.

"Love me, kid?" His head was close to hers now; his arm about her waist pressed her soft body nearer. He squeezed her hand.

Shivering, jumping, jiggling, to the maddening taps of the drums that throbbed like wine gone to the head. Swaying, gliding, sliding to the moaning tones of the long trombone that cried like some jungle animal in the night. Round and round, up and down, back and forth. The warmth of pressed bodies, huddled together, trembling like the broad leaves of an umbrella tree in a light wind. And over it all presided a heavy-set man with hanging, purple jowls—Kelly.

In one corner of the room he stood now, Kelly, watching the patrons of his Cafe with careful eyes. Nodding to acquaintances; stopping at a table to talk; sitting for a moment to have a drink; ushering newcomers to special tables; that was Kelly. For he knew them all—all these people of the Tenderloin who came to dance and drink and talk and plan and fight in his Cafe. Gangsters, prizefighters, crooks, politicians, gamblers—he knew them all by their first names.

Kelly scanned the room, watching the erstwhile dancers giving their orders. He noted with approval the waiters scurrying about, their trays heaped with sandwiches and filled with glasses. Wednesday night—it was always a big night in Kelly's Ringside Cafe, with special entertainment as an added attraction. Finally he clapped his hands several times and caught the glances of a half dozen girls, now sitting at various tables. At his nod the girls rose and came over towards the owner of the Cafe, some hurrying, some lagging behind to talk to their escorts.

"Time to go on," he called to the girls, herding them towards a door that opened off the rear of the Cafe. "Hurry up!" He called again.

Rose, her hand still in Chuck's, looked up and answered his signal. "Kelly's calling us," she smiled at the man beside her.

"I will, Chuck," Rose promised, as she turned and waved a final farewell.

Chuck sauntered over to one of the tables that faced directly onto the dance floor, where he could command a view of all that took place. He sat down opposite a small, thin man, who looked up and grinned at his approach, lighting a cigarette.

"Well, how's it going, Sparrow, old kid?" Chuck blew a cloud of smoke through his nose and looked at the man across the table.

"O. K., Chuck." Sparrow stretched out his legs, lolling back in his chair dreamily, and watching his companion through half-closed lids. His loudly checkered suit of black and white, a little too small for him, gave his lean figure a grotesque appearance, which was further enhanced by the light tan vest, rather soiled, and the brilliant red tie with its huge pin of diamonds formed in the shape of a question mark. His lean, lined face had a death-like pallor, but now the lines were smoothed out as though he were at peace with the world.

Chuck beckoned to a waiter who came hurrying forward. "Well, what'll it be, Sparrow?" he asked, rousing his companion from his seeming lethargy.

"Beer," Sparrow responded laconically.

"Make that two." Chuck nodded to the waiter, who dashed off to fill the order.

"How ya makin' out wit th' broad, Chuck?" Sparrow pulled on a much-chewed cigarette that dangled from his fingers.

"Jeez! I'm getting along great, old kid! They all fall for me, sooner or later," Chuck announced with pride, flicking an ash from his one-too-well brushed coat.

"Yeh, I'll say th' do." Sparrow smiled at his companion with almost as much pride as Chuck himself had shown. He looked with evident admiration on the other's clean-cut features, his finely chiseled nose, his rounded chin, and the well-set shoulders. "Say, youse could have easy pickin's, Chuck. Youse oughter play 'em Park Avenoo dames fer a fare-ya-well, wit 'at mug o' yours. Why don'tcha?"

"Say, youse could have easy pickin', Chuck."

"Why don't I? I got some pride, Sparrow." Chuck pointed his cigarette at his companion to emphasize his words. "I'll take mine straight. Let the pretty boys play the gigolos. I'm out for bigger stuff 'an that."

"Youse could rake in th' coin, I'm tellin' ya," Sparrow insisted. "Ya don't have to stop at none of 'at gigolo stuff. T'ink of all 'em sparklers. 'Ey got rocks big as a chunk o' ice. An' y'ain't gotta pack no gats ta git 'em."

"Aw, lay off, Sparrow!" Chuck swept his hand through the air in a gesture of contempt. "I tell you I'm getting mine the way I want it and—"

His eloquence was interrupted by the waiter who was serving the order. The foaming glasses lilted as they sped across the table, and Sparrow reached for his with a thirsty gesture. Without waiting for Chuck he downed half the contents of the mug.

"What do I owe you, son?" Chuck drew a thin roll of bills from his pocket and peeled off a five dollar note, handing it to the waiter. "An' bring me back some change," he cautioned, as the man hurried away, grinning.

"Spendin' it heavy, ain'tcha?" Sparrow raised questioning eyes.

"Sure, what's the dif?" Chuck shrugged his shoulders. "We got a lot more coming same way that come. Easy pickings, Sparrow—easy pickings! Well, down the old hatch!" He lifted his glass and drank.

CHAPTER II.

Back in the small, untidy dressing room, "Kelly's Girls" were hurriedly stepping out of their dresses and hanging them along on the pegs that decorated one side of the narrow space. Shoes and stockings were kicked underneath the long board that served as a dressing table for the six dancers who made up one of the features of the evening's entertainment. Quickly they sat down on the backless chairs that were lined up in front of the mildewed, fly-specked mirror, and began making up.

Six different types, they were, ranging from light blonde in coloring to the darkest of brunettes. Scraps of conversation ran up and down the lines. News of the evening, gleaned from various sources, was passed from one to another, as six faces peered into the mirror, dabbing on brilliant splotches of rouge; painting vermillion lips until they gleamed; applying mascara with a lavish hand.

SNAPSHOT GAVE MARION DAVIES MOVIE CHANCE

The most versatile girl in pictures who is never afraid to be different.

That is Marion Davies, outstanding star of the American screen, whose Cosmopolitan productions for Metro-Goldwyn Mayer, have won her international renown.

The star was born in Brooklyn January 3, 1900, the daughter of a judge of the city of New York. She spent her youth in 'the big city" and attended the grammar schools there. Her education was completed at the Convent of the Sacred Heart, where she specialized in dramatic art, French, literature and music.

At the age of 16, Miss Davies left the convent and joined the chorus of "Chin Chin, the Montgomery and Stone Musical comedy. She graduated from this into the chorus of "Oh Boy" and then into Zeigfeld's Follies. It was while in "Oh Boy" that she was selected by Harrison Fisher for the subject of his famous painting "Morning."

While on a vacation trip to Florida, Miss Davies posed for a photograph on the beach which attracted the attention of a New York motion picture producer and resulted in her first motion picture part, that of the leading lady in "Runaway Romany."

Since that time Miss Davies has presented more different characterizations than probably any actress. Her latest picture, "The Patsy" comes to the Richmond Theater tonight.

Other features include "Grandpa's Boy," Fox News and North of Nowhere.

'COOLIDGE BULL MARKET' TAKES SHARP DECLINE

NEW YORK, June 12.—(U.P.)—Pennsylvania's delegation to the Republican convention announced itself for Hoover for president today and the stock market plunged into a wave of selling which wiped out many a small fortune and set new records for frenzied trading.

It brought an end to what traders have called the "Coolidge Bull Market" which has existed for nearly two years. Financially, it was looked upon as the passing of Calvin Coolidge from the position of dominance.

A total of 5,109,700 shares of stocks changed hands during the day. It was the first time in history that more than 5,000,000 shares has been traded in in a single day. Only a few weeks ago the "Coolidge Bull Market" has been at such a height that for the first time in history dealings had totalled more than 4,000,000 shares. On May 16, 4,886,200 shares had changed hands and it was that high record marking the pinacle of trading on the "Coolidge Market" which was passed in today's reversal.

On that day hardly a stock had failed to gain in price. Today out of more than a thousand stocks listed, less than 100 escaped without losses.

CHURCH SOCIETY HAS CIRCUS

The Keystone bible class and the senior Christian Endeavor society of the First Christian church held a circus last evening in the church hall. An entertainment was presented with the following participating: George Williams gave some animal and bird impersonations; Miss Martin gave several numbers on the violin accompanied by Miss Hebraid and Miss Mary McLaughlin sang several selections, accompanied by her father, Mr. McLaughlin.

A number of freaks were placed in side shows such as the wild Australian Snipe, a pink albino ground hog, the horse with the wooden leg and the missing link.

Everyone present was anxious to see the swimming match which turned out to be a match in a pan of water. The midget of the circus was the tallest man on the police force, Allan G. Cundy. The fortune teller in her tent was very popular.

There were many clowns and a ring master. Sea nuts, popcorn, hot dogs and circus baloons were sold to everyone.

The nail driving contest was won by Mrs. B. K. Yeager.

The returns of the evening will go toward the purchase of a piano which the society is very much in need of.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS WILL STAGE WHIST

A whist party will be held by the Richmond parlor 147, of the Native Daughters of the Golden West on June 19, in the Odd Fellows hall.

A number of attractive prizes will be awarded to the winners. Mrs. Gertrude Paasch, chairman, of the event took pains to select prizes that are useful as well as attractive.

SCIOTS TO HOLD DANCE FRIDAY EVENING

A dance and entertainment will be given by the Sciots Friday evening which is Mobib's night. The affair will take place in the Richmond clubhouse at 8 o'clock.

All Sciots and their wives and the Masonic fraternities in general are extended a cordial invitation to attend.

Al Curtis is in charge of the splendid program to take place and also of the refreshments.

NOMINATION OF HOOVER IS ASSURED

solution so rapidly that tonight the convention already seems as if it were practically over. Only the scramble for the vice-presidency keeps the delegates from packing up and going home.

And the word scramble is used advisedly because every person in the vast convention throng not otherwise plainly identified seems to be a budding vice-presidential candidate.

The let down of tension after the collapse of the anti-Hoover fight produced a feeling of apathy which was reflected in the convention opening today. There was less cheering than at any political convention this writer has reported.

KANSAS CITY, June 12—(U.P.)—Five hundred farmers bearing banners, "If we don't get it here, we will go to Houston," disrupted a formal meeting of the republican platform committee when they marched in late today with a demand for a McNary-Haugen bill plank in the party platform.

The marchers paraded in while George H. Woodsen of DesMoines was pleading with the committee for more liberal government in the Virgin islands. They stopped Woodson's speech and demanded to be heard.

MUSTGETEATS CELEBRATE BIRTHDAYS

The Mustegeteats had an enjoyable meeting last evening. The birthdays of the following were celebrated: Mrs. Ethel Ten Eyck, Mrs. Minnie Phillips, Mrs. Myrtle Dunn and E. A. Fagerberg.

The retiring president, Mrs. Daisy Mayo and the retiring secretary, Mrs. Mary Gianelli were presented with gifts from the club.

The ladies of the club had as their guests Dr. Gerald Myers, George Harvey, Edwin Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Myers, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Scott, and their two sons Wilber and Glen, Mr. and Mrs. Regello, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Hathaway and their two daughters Pearl and Dorothy, Mr. A. L. Hathaway and Mrs. R. Smith.

Whist was enjoyed during the evening, with prizes going to Mrs. Ethel Ten Eyck, Bert Ten Eyck, Mrs. Ted Hathaway, C. M. Kelly and E. M. Meyers.

The following were installed into office for the coming year: Mrs. E. Ten Eyck, president; Mrs. Ruth Fagerberg, vice-president, Miss LaLura LaLonde, secretary, and Ward Fraga, attendant.

Late in the evening the guests retired to the banquet room where a lovely repast was served on a charmingly decorated table. The predominationg colors of pink and blue were carried out in all of the decorations.

This will be the last meeting until fall. Many of the members are leaving to spend the summer vacation on the sea shore or in the mountains.

Also included in this Feature Presentation, plenty of Plain White Broadcloth Shirts. Both Fancy and White are good quality, none less than 100x60 count. All collar-attached styles.

We want to emphasize the character of these Shirts. They are all full cut, with roomy bodies, ample arm holes and large sleeves. The Capable Workman Is An Artist Too

The man in overalls, with his hand on the throttle — the man whose skill takes his precious human freight over mountains and rivers—that man is an artist in his chosen profession. So is the mechanic who turns out a machine, perfect in all its parts — the factory worker who creates a beautiful article — the miner who unentombs the riches of the earth —the farmer who provides the necessities of life. Knowing his job well, and loving it wholeheartedly, lifts a man out of the drudge class. It makes him a big man in his calling.

We are proud of the part our Store is prepared to play during Work Clothes Week. Mr. Workman will find here the things he needs to help him keep the wheels of industry busy. Serviceable overalls, shoes, caps, shirts and socks; all reliable merchandise at interestingly low prices.

The workmen of America have made life over for all of us during the last 50 years. We are too prone to accept our labor-saving devices as a matter of course and forget the debt we owe the workers whose skill have made our lives more convenient.

SPORTS

BANKERS LOSE CLOSE CONTEST TO MECHANICE

In spite of the fact that Dick Austin pitched a good game, striking out eleven men, the American Trust company team last night lost to the Mechanics by a score of 4 to 2.

The Trust team had the game won, two to one, until the last inning when the Mechanics staged a rally, getting three hits which were turned into that many runs.

Fleisher pitched for the Mechanics and held his opponents to six hits, walked two and struck out five. Austin allowed eight hits and walked two. Bliss, who has not been hitting heavy in this league was the heavy hitter of the game, clouting three hits for as many times at bat, and walking for his fourth time on base.

There were plenty of errors. Fleisher, Brown, McLaughlin, and Hill each making one boot, Greathouse, two and Beck three errors. Boyd got the only sacrifice hit in the game.

SHEPPARD TO PLAY IN OPEN GOLF MATCHES

Charlie Sheppard, former pro at the Carquinez Golf club and widely known in Richmond, with Dewey Longworth, Claremont professional, won the right to represent Northern California in the open championship as a result of leading in a 36 hole qualifying medal contest at the San Francisco Golf and Country club's course at Ingleside.

LOMSKI WILL FACE LATZO IN N. Y. RING

NEW YORK, June 12.—(U.P.)—Instead of finding the light-heavyweight champion, Tommy Loughran, opposite him in the Ebbets field boxing ring Wednesday night, Leo Lomski, the Aberdeen, (Wash.) assassin, will face Pete Latzo of Scranton, Pa., a persistent fellow who gave Loughan a close call twelve days ago, in a 10-round light-heavyweight match.

Lomski signed to meet Loughran, but the bout was postponed when the New York State Athletic commission ruled that the 175-pound king must meet Jimmy Slattery before he engaged the Aberdeen fighter.

Latzo, former welterweight champion who is pounding at the light-heavyweight throne room now, readily agreed to take on Lomski in place of Loughran.

"I'll give Lomski a better mill than Loughran would have," Latzo says. "I was never more confident of winning. After I beat Lomski I'm going to take Mickey Walker's middleweight title."

The winner will get a chance at Walker's crown July 4, provided the Elizabeth, N. J., champion defeats Ace Hudkins in their fourth-coming titlebout at Chicago.

Latzo and Lomski completed training today, the former weighing 170 and the later 167. Lomski is a favorite in the betting.

BENEFIT SHOW TO BE STAGED AT EL CERRITO

Rossi has signed Billy Adams, San Francisco boxer who defeated Artie Sullivan in National Hall bout last week, and George Brazelton for the ten round main event.

Brazelton, a young comer, is no slouch at slinging his dukes, having met such fighters as Frankie Bray, Chick Devlin and Jimmy Patterson. Adams has tangeled with Joey Silver, Pete Meyers, Eddie Dampier and Fred Hoppe.

Chitney Miller, colored boxer, is billed to meet Manuel Vasquez over the six round route, or less.

Mickey Brown, Richmond scrapper, will take on Pedro Torres of Panama.

Billy Viner and Fastor Manelo are scheduled to go four rounds, while Tim Daley and Frank Black will open the show.

When Collier Had a Ringside Booking

Willie Collier, head man of the Friars, and Tex Rickard were feeling very ancient indeed when they met at Bobby Crawford's North Hills course at Douglaston, L. I., on Sunday.

"Doesn't seem possible that the Jeffries-Johnson fight was eighteen yedrs ago, Willie," said Tex, as he recalled their first meeting.

"It seems only yesterday," returned Collier. "When I heard the fight was going to be held on the Coast, I booked myself solid into Oakland. The night I got there the governor chased the scrap to Reno, and I had to report sick to the theater to get away. I would'nt have missed it for anything and I didn't. But it does not seem that it was eighteen years ago, Tex, does it?"

The irreverent Bobby Crawford asked Collier how old he was.

"Well," said Willie, "you must understand, Robert, that I was just a boy in knee pants when that fight was held."

That was not incriminating, as Mr. Rickard and Lou Davis were all wearing knee pants on Sunday. However they were the knee pants affected by veteran golfers, and carry no age rating.

Golf gets 'em all. At North Hills fine course Sunday were Rickard, the modern barnum, Chief Inspector Lahey of Police headquarters, George Nicholson, corporation counsel, Dr. William G. Fralich, noted for his work in patching the broken hands of Cauliflower Alley; Willie Collier, veteran actor, president of DeSilva, Brown and Henderson, one of the biggest music publishing houses in the business, and Lou Davis, song writer and venison vender extraordinary

Walter P. Chrysler, whose recent merger with Dodge Brothers stirred Wall Street, is a golfer. He plays at the exclusive Crick club. Most of the members of this doggy club go to and from the course in their yachts.

No bills are ever handed to Crick Club members. Regardless of what a member orders, no bill is presented. At the end of the year the bills are grossed and each member pays an equal share. Men like Morgan and Vanderbilt, who rarely go to the club, pay tremenduous bills on this account, as they must share alike in the outlays of the members who visit the club regularly.

Hornsby tried to Help Andy Cohen

At the start of the current big league season, New York newspapers ran daily comparative batting statistics of Andy Cohen, Rogers Hornsby and Frank Frisch as a baseball feature.

Hornsby was strongly against the idea.

"It's not fair to Cohen," the Rajah pointed out. "Frisch and myself have had more experience than he, and although Andy got off to a red hot start, it wont be so good for him when we overhaul and pass him in the averages. The fans are liable to start riding the kid."

Hornsby's words have been borne out. Cohen has dropped behind. And New York newspapers are no longer carrying the daily comparative figures.

Baseball players are of the opinion that Hornsby should protect himself in the clinches and keep away from unlighted spots on the next western trip of the Boston Braves.

Hornsby's difficulties with Western bookies may have been washed out in court but you can't protect your head from a blackjack with a court order in a dark alley.

Juniors Smother McRacken Babes

By sending three pitchers to the shower in a deluge of base hits, the Richmond Juniors yesterday morning defeated the McRacken Babes by a score of 23 to 3 in a game played at Nicholl field.

NEW RATES MAKE ELECTRIC COOKING VERY ECONOMICAL

And then let the electric range do all the cooking

That is what the electric range does. It eliminates cooking monotony. Its harmonious white porcelain enamel makes kitchens attractive. Its perfect baking wins appetites. And its automatic time and temperature controls do the cooking while you're shopping or at the movies.

The oven of the new electric range heats up to 400 degrees in 9 to 11 minutes—as fast as one can mix biscuits. The open coil cooking elements are now made smaller to fit your pans. Heat that was formerly wasted goes to work. The result is, food cooks faster — less electricity is used.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful, every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

S. P. BRIDGE TO BE COMPLETED IN THREE YEARS

President William Sproule of the Southern Pacific Company believes that trains will be operating over the company's $10,000,000 Army Point Bullshead Point bridge within three years.

The railroad executive expressed that opinion following his return to San Francisco from New York where he has been in conference with the railroad's directorate on bridge construction and other improvements contemplated by the line in the west.

Sproule is quoted as declaring: "We already have made application for its approval by the Army the Navy and the Interstate Commerce Commission, as well as for the needful state and federal permits," he said. "I believe our trains will be running over it in three years, for we are ready to commence construction any day, and $10,000,000 we figure as its inside cost. Should it cost more than that to make it absolutely first class, we will spend whatever is necessary and not one dollar more."

A party of surveyors was engaged yesterday surveying along the Southern Pacific line between the western limits of Martinez and the Shell company refinery property. They declined to discuss the nature of their work.

Etiquette In Phone Use Is Told By Paper

Keenly appreciative of the value of correct telephone usage in newspaper work, the New York Sun is at present running a series of suggestions for telephone etiquette in its popular column entitled "The Sun's Rays" for the information of readers. Forty-two items have been included to date in the series, a number of which follow:

1. The old fashioned "Hello" when answering the telephone has become obsolete through the modern usage of the name or telephone number to identify one's self.

2. Placing the receiver on the hook gently prevents making a disagreeable noise in the other party's ear and eliminates possible damage to the instrument.

3. Telephone manners are important for voice courtesy is as important as face to face politeness.

4. "Guess who this is" was never good telephone manners. The modern telephone user establishes identity immediately.

5. A courteous way to start the day right is the sincere "Good morning."

6. Good breeding is revealed quite as much by courteous manners over the telephone as though you were physically present.

7. Talking into the mouthpiece with lips a half inch away, will enable the one to whom you are speaking to get your message without straining to hear you.

8. Impatient jiggling of the hook to signal the operator, does not flash the small lamp on the switchboard. The right and effective way is to move the hook up and down slowly.

WIFE MURDERS MATE SLAYER AT GRAVESIDE

Tony Chiodo, 35, arrested here in February and acquitted in Fresno ten days ago on a charge of murdering Santo Nocito, was shot to death at Fresno by Nocito's widow, Mrs. Josephine Nocito, while they attended the funeral of a mutual friend.

As the body of Joe Gambero, a wealthy Italian, was lowered into its grave, Mrs. Nocito drew a small calibre revolver from her purse and shot Chiodo through the head. Chiodo died within a few minutes before seven hundred mourners at the funeral rites. The widow was taken into custody to await filing of a murder charge.

Chiodo, who left Fresno after the slaying of Nocito, was arrested on the Carquinez straits bridge by a Fresno police officer. He was visiting with friends at Vallejo and the police officer was on a Sunday outing. Driving across the span the officer noticed Chiodo and recognized him as a man wanted at Fresno on a murder charge. Chiodo was brought to the county jail to await transfer to Fresno for trial.

The Nocitos objected to attentions paid their 16 year old daughter by Chiodo and he was warned to stay away. Nocito and Chiodo decided to "have it out." A duel was arranged. On January 7 Nocito's bullet riddled body was found outside Fresno. Authorities claimed he had been ambushed, but Chiodo contended he shot in self defense. A jury acquitted him last week.
